

VICAR OF ASHFORD, KENT

Included in the extracts from the accounts of the Vicars of Ashford, Kent is this reference to Mr. Richard Whitlock who was buried there October 24, 1666: "This Mr. Whitlock was a man of wit and learning. He was a strenuous church-of- England man. I have heard that there were unhappy differences between him and his parishioners, and indeed several of those sentences which he wrote upon the glass windows of the Vicarage-house do plainly enough intimate as much.

Mr. Warren here copies upwards of thirty sentences of Latin, Greek and English, some expressive of much vexation indeed, adding 'that there are many more'" From Monuments in Kent 1784

(Source:SOG284)