Dear Peter:

I have just heard from Robin Holley regarding your request for further information on his Wiltshire Emigration Database. Robin would welcome a write-up in your newsletter and can be reached at robinrobin@enterprise.net.

The following is a transcript of the e-mail I received in response to my request for clarification of the source of his information on Thomas Whitlock of Salisbury. There is included some information regarding very early Whitlocks of the 13th and 14th century.

Also, I was wondering if you were aware that wills for Salisbury are not located with the same information where you obtained the other Whitlock will's we discussed earlier. All the area surrounding the city is grouped together under the Archdeaconry of Sarum, so any wills for people in? Help he city is grouped together under the Archdeaconry of Sarum, so any wills for people in Salisbury itself would be located elsewhere and I am going to try to track down where. Will let you know what I find.

Dear Debbie,

Sorry that I have not replied before. I have been extremely busy at the Wiltshire record Office, going through all the 1881 census of Wiltshire looking for any persons that were not born in this country, so far I have found three hundred and eighty five person who state that they were born outside of this country. The reference about Thomas Whitlock of Salisbury comes from the late John Whiles collection of emigration 13%The reference about Thomas Whitlock of Salisbury comes from the late John Whiles collection of emigration that he gave me just before he died. His widow has the full transcripts, I will see if I can obtain them, there might be more information in his lists.

Jack Whiles was an expert on early American Emigration, particularly interested in William Penn and how he founded the colony of Pennsylvania.

The Gentleman who runs the Whitlock family Association is most welcome to run a article about this database, it has now grown to 4327 enteries and i am adding to it most nights. Any body can write or e.mail me at this address.

On friday I am going to the Wiltshire Record Office, is there anything I can look up for you?.

Robin

Hope this helps in some way, I will let you know if I find anything else.
