Peter,
Thank you.

Andrew Frank was supposedly born in Tennessee. He is my great-grandfather and died in 1984 at the age of 104. He married Tennessee Belle (Edwards), moved to Texas and farmed before surrendering to the ministry (Southern Baptist). Moving to Oklahoma, he pastored for many years primarily in Western Oklahoma. I do not have much? Help he pastored for many years primarily in Western Oklahoma. I do not have much information researching the Whitlock prior to him however. Unfortunately as a young man, my conversations with him did not revolve around family history, but about what was going on at the moment. His father may have been named Robert. I believe he had four or so brothers and three or four sisters. One sister was Tinnie, and another Minnie I think. Other than this I know little.

I'm curious about tracing the Whitlocks back through England. During my dad's vacation this year, he was traveling through Wales and England, and at a Sunday church service, met a gentleman there named Whitlock. As I am new to genealogical research, I have relatively little information. My great grandad (Andrew) was quite a character--a real practical joker, and a very dapper gentleman. (Most every Whitlock I know is a practical joker). He and his wife had eleven children. My grandfather, Harold, became a preacher. Two great grandsons of Andrew and Tenne Belle are also ministers now. Both of us are named David 69%grandfather, Harold, became a preacher. Two great grandsons of Andrew and Tenne Belle are also ministers now. Both of us are named David Whitlock. The other David is in full-time ministry in Louisiana. I am a "tent-maker," teaching full time at a small university (business), and pastoring a church in a neighboring town.

Thank you for your reply and I look forward to visiting with you.

Sincerely,
David
