Peter,

Dick Whitlock's posting of your data has sparked my interest in these people. I was recently in Virginia and wondered about what records exist, but since it was a vacation trip with my wife and daughter, I could not stop and do research. Following is a recent exchange I had with Greg Whitlock (gwhitloc@swva.net). Have you anything to add to the discussion? Was this information sent to you without documentation, or do you know the source? Who disputes Mitchell and Jackson's descent and why? Are there any records, or are they a victim of the Civil War? I have been told that the original immigrant was in Isle of Wight County by 1638 and also that he was born in 1633, probably mutually exclusive facts. I have found that a William Whitlock left England for Barbados in 1635. Many people came from Barbados to VA, could he have done so?

Perhaps you may want Greg's latest info for your database.

Warm regards, Scot Austin

Greg,

I was reviewing your message and it struck me that the chronology was wrong for Richard to be the nephew of Thomas Wellington who was born in 1790.

Looking at Peters data base Whitlock.10 I found the following:

PATH:C:\WHITLOCK.WP\WP11 FILE:WHITLOCK.10 DATE:AUGUST 9,1999

The Whitlocks of Virginia, U.S.A. #1

Could it be that your Richard was the son of K1)John? If so he would have been uncle to TWW. The pattern Thomas/John/Richard appears even earlier with L1)John's wife also as Sarah.

I do not know what Peter's source for this is, but if the information is correct, there must be records somewhere. I keep seeing this information. Is Peter's database the only source? I got this from Peter over 5 years ago, but the file on Dick's website is still unchanged. Notice he says Mitchell and Jackson may not be sons of Thomas. Since Mitchell was involved in the land transaction with John disposing of Lewis Wilbourne's property, could he have been a son of John's rather than Thomas? And therefore a brother of Richard. If you find anything new please keep me posted. I would really like to get this family sorted out. I suspect that most of the Virginia Whitlock's are of this family, but how to tie them together.

Scott,

Thanks for the information. I have been a member of the Whitlock Family Association for over a year now but have not really found much on my Whitlock line through them. I have traced my Whitlock line back to Richard Whitlock who married Sarah Hancock in Patrick Co. Va. 8 Mar 1804. We have been able to prove that Preston and Thomas Whitlock of Kanawha County WVA were brothers to Henry and Zebedee of Floyd and Franklin Counties Va.,

Margaret (Peggy) of Patrick County, Richard of Wythe Co. and James Riley (Jorial) of Patrick Co. They were all children of Richard and Sarah.

The Will of Lewis Wilbourne speaks to his daughter Sarah Whitlock and her husband John Whitlock as well as his grandson Richard Whitlock. Richard inherited some of the estate of Lewis Wilbourne from Halifax Co. There is a land transaction in Halifax Co. from Sarah Whitlock, John Whitlock, Mitchell and Sally Whitlock to another party in 1834. It states that it part of the estate from Lewis Wilbourne and was sold to John Whitlock by Richard L. Whitlock in 1818. My Richard L. Whitlock was in the tax records for Halifax Co. until 1818 and was in the Patrick Co. tax records from 1819 until his early death in 1823. There is also a chapter in a book about Floyd Co. Va. stating that Henry Wilbourne Whitlock came to Patrick Co. with his family from Halifax in 1818. It was the family of Richard. Henry was Richards son (Error in the book). This all points to my Richard L. Whitlock being the son of John and Sarah and grandson of Lewis Wilbourne. Only problem is that I have not found any official records to prove it and there are conflicting dates for the birth of Sarah Wilborn.

I believe my line is Whitlock.85 in Peters records although I ahve made many improvements and corrections since he recorded the file.

Any help will be greatly appreciated.
Thanks,

Greg Whitlock
