

GenForum

X4485/1

Re: Paul Cameron Whitlock -b. 1878

Posted by: Scott Wright (ID 1325) <swright@vetcentric.com>

Date: June 14, 2002 at 16:06:57

In Reply to: Paul Cameron Whitlock -b. 1878 by M. E Cameron of 2171

I am married to Paul Cameron Whitlock's great-granddaughter. Have lot's of info. Feel free to contact me.

Notify Administrator about this message? Followups:

No followups yet

X4485/2

Subject: RE: Paul Cameron Whitlock
Date: Tue, 18 Jun 2002 17:39:02 -0400
From: "Scott Wright" <swright@vetcentric.com>
To: "Peter" <whitlock@bcegg.com>

Peter,

Thanks for contacting me! I am a newbie at this geneology thing but I am having a lot of success with my wife's lineage. Sorry, but I am still trying to get information about E. D. Whitlock's parents as well, but my wife's aunt has information (I believe) and I will ask her about him.

Here's how my family is associated with Paul Cameron Whitlock: Paul Cameron Whitlock's wife was Maude Crosland, and I have a lot of information on her ancestry back to the 1500's. Their daughter, Virginia LeGrand Whitlock (still living, 99 yrs. old) married James Orr Cobb (deceased). Their son, Paul Whitlock Cobb, married Elizabeth Buder. I married their daughter, Frances Elizabeth Cobb, and we have a son Cameron Matthew Wright (12 wks old). My wife's brother is Paul Whitlock Cobb, Jr.

How is your Whitlock lineage connected to Paul Cameron Whitlock, my wife's Great Grandfather?

And out of curiosity... do you know anything about what I jokingly refer to as "The curse of the Whitlock"? My wife's brother, father, aunt, cousins and grandmother (Virginia LeGrand Whitlock) were all born with a conspicuous white streak of hair located right on the crest of their "widow's peak" (middle of the top of forehead). I presume that this is where the name "Whitlock" (i.e., "White lock of hair") originated. I was surprised to see no mention of this fascinating feature in any of the Whitlock genealogy websites. I have never heard of someone's surname originating from such a curious trait. This can't be a coincidence, can it?! Do you or any of your Whitlock relatives have this?

Regards,
Scott Wright
Annapolis, MD

WPL28/WEL44