NANCEKIEVILL-POOLEY-JENN-PILLMAN-ALLIN-WHITLOCK-SMALE-LYLE-etc.

Just trying to make contact. I have a good deal of family information on this quarter of my tree, nearly all in the Hartland corner of Devon. But I should be glad to find a few distant cousins.

NANCEKIEVILL - Langtree, Landcross and Hartland 17-19
POOLEY - Clovelly and Hartland 18-19
JENN - Woolsey, Parkham and Hartland 18-19
PILLMAN - Little Torrington and Hartland 17-20
ALLIN - Landcross (so few records) 19
WHITLOCK - Langtree 17-18
SMALE - Frithelstock 17-18
LYLE/WADE/WATCHER/SHORTRIDGE - Clovelly 17-18

Does anyone have any of these names/places in their tree?

Peter,

I have hit a snag!

My WHITLOCK link is through the marriage 19 Feb 1805 of Thomas Allin of Landcross to Susannah Whitlock of Langtree. The marriage was witnessed by Thomas Whitlock and another. Their children were Fanny, Susan, Sarah and Elizabeth. Unfortunately, the Landcross records suffered damage, so I cannot make a line back from Thomas Allin or check the names of his mother, sisters or grandmother, so naming pattern is not very helpful.

When Susannah Allin died 3 Feb 1844 in Landcross her MI gave her age as 77. This would make her birth c.1766/7. The 1841 gave her age as 75, which would push her birth back to 1766 at least. I know that all these guides are uncertain, but I took them all to point to Susannah Whitlock bapt. 22 May 1767 and daughter of Thomas and Joan.

She appears at L5 on your plan, but you have listed her as buried 7 Feb 1815.

I too have this burial record on which Susannah's age appears as 47, which would point - I agree - to the same Susannah daughter of Thomas.

Obviously, both identifications cannot be correct. Am I right in thinking that the only other candidate for both events is M1 Susannah bapt. 9 Nov. 1770, daughter of Richard Whitlock and Mary Smale? She is too young for both the burial record and the later MI/census but she did have a brother Thomas who might have witnessed her marriage.

I know that it became customary during the 19C for siblings to witness for marriages, but I do not know whether it was the custom in Langtree and as early as 1805.

Can you throw any light on this uncertainty? 1805 was a late marriage for either Susannah but the MI for Thomas Allin suggests that he was born c.1761 and that it was a late marriage for him too (?a second).

By the way, Susannah Nancekevil who is your ancestress at K1 was the daughter of Thomas N. and Philadelphia Martin from whom I am descended via their son William bapt 1725.
