I have managed to locate Richard hutching grave in St marks cheetham with wife Frances storer and son thomas henry will be getting a photo on Sunday here the information from my message she going to get me a photo and i will forward to you

Hi,

Your in luck their is a monument, not the one shown on the picture as you thought, you can see it on google street view. I don't have a pic of it, but next time I'm down there I'll take one for you.
If not not able to get there. It is in a bad condition.

Google maps , put in Copthall Lane Cheetham Hill. Zoom in to where it cross roads with St Mark's Lane. and keep zooming until it goes to street view. You should arrive St Kilda's Drive, If you pan round a little to the right you will see what looks like an island of trees. There is one tree that leans to the right, the monument next to it on the left is Whitelock's.

The number of the grave is (1129 +1130) actually one the MLFHS gave it and not original, they numbered all the stones when taking the inscriptions. I don't think the stones were originally numbered. When the MLFHS took down the inscriptions they only took the basic info, not full inscription.

Inscription: 1129
