MATCHBOX KID IN BLAZE No. 2
TINY firebug Alan Whitlock burned down his council home yesterday—for the second time in a fortnight.
Alan, five, and his family had only just been rehoused at Milton Keynes, Bucks, when he started the £10,000 blaze while playing with matches in his bedroom. The boy's first house-fire ran up a £7,000 bill.

This newspaper cutting was taken from the daily national newspaper "The Sun" in December 1986.

Prize pal.
MY friend offered to do some typing for me while my own machine was having an overhaul.
I gave her a short story I had written in dialect for a local competition.
She returned it, beautifully typed out in Queen's English. But her gallant deed stopped me from winning a prize.
Mrs BRENDA WHITELOCK, Newcastle upon Tyne.
