To my son William Mays - a ewe lamb with what I [he] has before received of me.

I wish that my tract of land called NJyeds be equally divided to make 2 plantations convenient, & that Thomas Lovelace & Alexander Hittson should adjudge the odds in Spicey and give to him that got the meanest part. I likewise give the whole tract to my son Gardner Mays and my son, David Mays.

To my daughter Chloe Bates - a ewe lamb with what she has received.

To my daughter Winford Sullins - a ewe lamb with what she has received.

To my daughter Rhodas Mays - 1 cow & calf & feather bed.

To my daughter Mary Mactack Mays - 1 cow & calf & feather bed.

To Elisabeth Mays - 1 cow & calf & feather bed.

To Sarah Mays - 1 cow & calf & feather bed.

To Johannah Mays - 1 cow & calf & feather bed.

At the death or marriage of my wife and the arriving of my young children to age 21, whatever of my estate remains, to be equally divided among my children.

Executors: wife Sarah Mays and sons Gardner and David Mays. Signed Dec 19, 1793 - William (M his mark) Mays. Wit - John Cardey, Alexander Douglas, Hunley Day.

Probate: at H Court of Jul 29, 1794, the will of William Mays dec'd was exhibited, proved, and OR. The executrix and executor, David Mays were granted a certificate for obtaining probate; security was William Moore, Beverley Mays, and Drury Mays, reserving liberty to Gardner Mays, the other executor, to join in the probate when he shall see cause.
